

Asha

Hope and Transformation
in the Slums of Delhi

Australia India
Institute

THE UNIVERSITY OF MELBOURNE

THE NOSSAL
INSTITUTE FOR GLOBAL HEALTH

Asha

Hope and Transformation in the Slums of Delhi

September 2011

Foreword: Documenting the Story of Asha	3
Glossary	6
Introduction	7
Chapter 1. Asha: Making a Change in the Slums of Delhi	10
1.1 The global challenge of urban slums	10
1.2 India: demography and urban slums	11
1.3 Delhi and its slums	12
1.4 The comprehensive Asha program in 2011	13
1.5 Effectiveness of Asha programs	13
Chapter 2. The History of Asha: from Managing a Cholera Outbreak to Bold Dreams of Equity	25
2.1 Dr Kiran Martin: Founder and Director of Asha	25
2.2 The beginnings of Asha: hard work, seizing opportunities, and forming relationships	27
2.3 Confronting power structures – peacefully	30
2.4 Building a new structure: community leaders and Asha staff	31
2.5 From little things, big things grow	32
2.6 Efforts towards sustainability: resourcing and leadership for the long term	35
Chapter 3. The Asha Model: Unlocking Individual and Community Potential	41
3.1 Asha's ethos, overall approach and strategies	41
3.2 Strategy 1: Long-term commitment	44
3.3 Strategy 2: Systems, protocols and monitoring	46
3.4 Strategy 3: Strengthening civil society	47
3.5 Strategy 4: Identifying and responding to local needs	59
Chapter 4. Asha Programs: Land Rights, Health, Education and Financial Inclusion	61
4.1 Land rights program	61
4.2 Health program	62
4.3 Education program for children and young adults	64
4.4 Financial inclusion	71
Chapter 5. Personal Transformation in India and Beyond	77
5.1 Individual change in the community	77
5.2 Alteration and personal growth among Asha staff	80
5.3 Winning over the powerful	81
5.4 Bringing change to people in the developed world	82
5.5 Kiran Martin's vision of change	86

Australia India Institute
The University of Melbourne
147 -149 Barry Street
Carlton Victoria 3053 Australia
T: + 61 3 9035 8047
www.ii.unimelb.edu.au

The Nossal Institute for Global Health
Faculty of Medicine,
Dentistry and Health Sciences
The University of Melbourne
Carlton Victoria 3010 Australia
T: +61 3 8344 9299/9121
<http://www.ni.unimelb.edu.au>

